

Bible Now Dismisses Christmas, Good Friday Rituals. The Bible is a sacred text that has been revered for centuries. It is a source of guidance, wisdom, and inspiration for millions of people around the world. However, there are some practices that have become part of Christian tradition that are not supported by the Bible. In this article, we will explore the heartbreaking reality of Christmas, Good Friday, and Second Coming dates and rituals that are not supported by the Bible.

Christmas

Advertisements

Christmas is a holiday that is celebrated by Christians around the world to commemorate the birth of Jesus Christ. However, there is no mention of December 25th as the date of Jesus' birth in the Bible. In fact, the Bible does not provide any specific date for Jesus' birth. The date of December 25th was chosen by the early Christian church to coincide with pagan festivals that were already being celebrated at that time. While Christmas has become an important part of Christian tradition, it is important to remember that it is not supported by the Bible.

Bible Now Dismisses Christmas, Good Friday Rituals

Bible Now Dismisses Christmas, Good Friday Rituals

Good Friday

Advertisements

Good Friday is a day that is observed by Christians to commemorate the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. However, there is no mention of Good Friday in the Bible. The Bible does mention that Jesus was crucified on a Friday, but it does not refer to it as “Good Friday”. The term “Good Friday” was coined much later in history. While Good Friday has become an important part of Christian tradition, it is important to remember that it is not supported by the Bible.

Second Coming Dates and Rituals

Advertisements

The Second Coming of Jesus Christ is a central tenet of Christian belief. However, there have been many predictions throughout history about when this event will occur. These predictions have ranged from specific dates to general time periods. However, none of these predictions have come true. The Bible clearly states that no one knows when the Second Coming will occur except for God himself (Matthew 24:36). Therefore, any attempts to predict when this event will occur are not supported by the Bible.

Bible Now Dismisses Christmas, Good Friday Rituals

 Views: 16

Advertisements